Biography

Michael Sheets, or as most know him, 'Bird' is still very young in his artwork. This sometimes shows in his diversity in media or subjects as he is still searching for his best fit in the art world. This process of growth has also enabled him to grow as an individual. The artwork he does is a reflection of his past experiences as well as his interest in history, psychology, and his own Native American heritage. An effort to best express these interests is where the diversity of media come from. His favorites have been charcoal, colored pencil, and watercolor but he is always trying new things. His greatest pleasure in art has been the positive impact on others, especially with portraiture of their loved ones.
