Lyell Castonguay's woodblock prints depict the natural world as seen through the filter of the artist's imagination. He teaches woodblock printmaking as the Co-Director of BIG INK, a collaborative project that facilitates the production of large-scale woodblock prints. Castonguay received his BFA from the New Hampshire Institute of Art in 2010. He is represented by Mitchell • Giddings in Brattleboro, VT and Brumfield Gallery in Astoria, OR.
